Laguna makes dozens of different clay blends. We stock the best sellers for our area in our Portland warehouse (shown in bold print). For larger quantities or for clays not in stock, please call or email us at orders@georgies.com. We'd be happy to order them for you. Our prices reflect freight charges from L.A. to Portland, but do not include freight to your door.

BOLD items are ones that we stock on a regular basis.

We order from Laguna every month. Our orders usually arrive 7-10 days after we order. Processing and shipping for individual orders may be an additional 5-7 business days after our shipment arrives. We appreciate your help in planning ahead for your studio or program needs.

Porcelain and Stoneware clays are available in both High-Fire and Mid-Range clays. The Low-Fire clays are "earthenware" bodies.

LAGUNA CLAYS CROSS- REFERENCE

Laguna makes dozens of different clay blends. On first glance the variety can be dizzying, but at the core of the question, all clay manufacturers work from the same pool of raw materials to satisfy your preferences in texture, working character and color.

With that in mind, we've identified some similarities between some of our clays and some of Laguna's blends.

If you like the Laguna blend, try some of these clays which are made right here in the Pacific Northwest.

We keep our clays in stock and readily available for you.

We order from Laguna the first week of every month. Our orders usually arrive 7-10 days after we order. Processing and shipping individual orders may be another 5-7 business days after our shipment arrives. We appreciate your help in planning ahead for your studio or program needs.
