

AMACO ALLIGATOR GLAZES

With these lowfire glazes from Amaco, no two pieces are the same because of the many variations in color which can occur as the glazes respond to variations in temperature within the chamber of your kiln. Variegated matte textures appear at points of lower temperature, with glossy surfaces at higher temperature points and a mingling of the two extremes in areas between.

SPECTRUM LOWSTONE GLAZES

Spectrum's Low-Stone Glazes approximate the look of high-fired reduction pottery while firing at a lower temperature in an electric kiln. These glazes, like the Duncan Artisans, are also great for experimenting with layering glazes!

- SP901 to SP905 are semi-transparent two-tone glazes.
- SP906 to SP908 break up to yield one color in areas where they are thicker and another color in areas where they are thinner.
- SP909 to SP924 are satiny, and all "break" to varying degrees.
- We stock these glazes in 4-ounce jars. Pints, gallons, and dry formula are available by special order. Please call for pricing and leadtime.
