Wiziwig Profile Ribs

if you can throw a cylinder on the wheel, you can use a Wiziwig forming rib to easily, quickly create mugs, bowls, goblets, steins, tumblers, and other forms. Modify or combine the basic forms to take shapes to your own personal next level. For production potters, these tools make it easy to make matching sets.

- Each rib has 2 profiles and several lip or rim shapes.
- Made of 18-gauge stainless steel, laser-cut to shape.
- They do not flex or bend, and are very resistant to rust.

Princeton Catalyst Tools

Not quite brushes, not quite palette knives, not quite ribs – but the best of all three! Catalyst tools are made from flexible silicone to give you a new form of creative expression with clay, glaze, paint, and slip. Wedges and Contours are ergonomically designed to fit your hand, so you have a direct tactile interaction with your work. They're good with clay, glazes, and slip. Blades and Mini-Blades have the working edges of wedges, but mounted on artist brush handles. For cleanup, you can pop the blades off the handles and put them back on when dry.
