

MAKE YOUR OWN STAMPS & MATS

If you can draw or trace and follow a line, you can carve your own rubber stamps with any design you can imagine! With these rubber stamp blanks and 9x13" sheets, you can make cut and carve to create stamps of any size and design you want. (Pictured stamp created by Stephanie Burton for her handbuilt sculptural & functional work.)

How to Use Texture Mats in Two Easy Steps

1. Create a slab of clay with a rolling pin, slab roller, or your bare hands.
2. Roll, press or pound the mat into the clay surface, and remove it to reveal the texture!

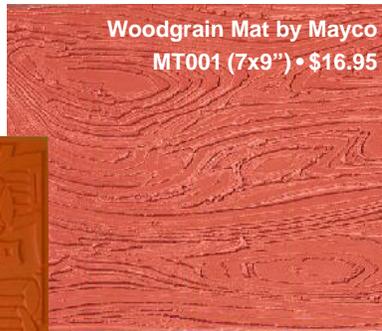

That's it: those are the basics of how to use texture mats to open all kinds of design and texture possibilities with these simple tools. Texture mats are completely open to your interpretation: you can use a brick pattern for the walls of a simple slab-built birdhouse, or overlay and combine mats and stamps for any look you want to create.

- If your clay tends to stick to the texture mat, make sure the mat is clean before use. If sticking persists, dust the mat lightly with cornstarch.
- Cut shapes or templates from the slab after applying texture, so the shapes aren't compressed or deformed.
- Translucent glazes, and glazes that break on design edges, are GREAT with texture mat designs for showing off the design!

Paddles & Mats

MKM Wooden Paddles

MKM's hardwood paddles are soaked in hot mineral oil or tung oil to seal the wood for durability and moisture resistance. All paddles are 0.45" thick, and the edges are rounded for comfort in your hand. The pattern area on short paddles measures 5-1/4" x 4-5/8", and 8-3/4" x 4-1/2" wide for long paddles.
